

CROP YIELDS WELL UP UP OTHER YEARS

Figures Compiled by Publicity Commissioner. Harvests Indicate That the Yields of 1910 are Far Better Than They Were Said to be Earlier in the Season

Provisionary figures showing the average yields of different crops throughout the province in the present year have been compiled by the Publicity Commissioner. The figures convey some gratifying information and show that the province is doing better than the average crop yields throughout the country. The figures were generally expected to be better than the average crop yields throughout the country.

DR. ROBERTSON TODAY ADDRESSED STUDENTS

Students of the University and Strathcona College were gathered in the hall of the Royal Commission this morning.

Students of the University of Alberta and the Strathcona College were gathered in the hall of the Royal Commission this morning. The speaker, Dr. Robertson, addressed the students on the importance of education and the role of the government in providing for the needs of the people.

Dr. Robertson, in an eloquent and earnest address, sought to impress upon his youthful audience the responsibility which was theirs as citizens of the great west. He pointed out the need for education and the role of the government in providing for the needs of the people. He also discussed the importance of the military and the role of the government in providing for the needs of the people.

The Strathcona sitting of the commission opened in the city hall chamber at twelve o'clock and continued until 1:30 p.m. The session was presided over by Mr. C. H. McArthur.

It may be pointed out that these figures are not complete, as a number of the best northern districts have not yet been heard from, but will tend to considerably increase the average yield. The yields will be especially gratifying when compared with the reports of Manitoba and Saskatchewan. For example, in Saskatchewan, the Winnipeg Free Press, after thorough investigation, places the winter wheat yield at five bushels per acre, while Alberta gave up in 11 months.

The above results, while in themselves they do not give an adequate idea of the productivity of the province, indicate that Alberta crops in 1910 are far better than they were said to be earlier in the season. The figures are tabulated they will show that especially in the northern parts of the province, the crops are well up with those of other years.

MAY DROP RAILROAD.
Winnipeg Opinion Is That the Western League is a Thing of the Past.

Winnipeg, Nov. 17.—It is thought that the Western League is a thing of the past. The league was formed in 1908 to represent the interests of the farmers and the small business men of the west. It has since that time been a source of contention between the farmers and the business men.

PRIMES FOR MAJOR GENERAL.
Governor General and Minister of Militia and Defence, Mr. Borden, has been awarded the Order of St. John.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—A general order has been issued by the military department regarding the wearing of uniforms. The order states that all officers and non-commissioned officers must wear the prescribed uniforms at all times. The order also states that all officers must wear the prescribed uniforms at all times.

INTERNATIONAL TRAFFIC.
May Be Made Subject to a Treaty Between Canada and the U. S.

Ottawa, Nov. 17.—Regarding the bill creating a commission to regulate international freight between Canada and the United States, it was stated today that as such would be a treaty without similar legislation on the part of congress, Hon. Mr. C. H. McArthur will take up the matter with the United States government.

SHELDON'S CREDITORS.
Three Cents on the Dollar All They Can Get.

Montreal, Nov. 17.—Three cents on the dollar is all that the creditors of the late Sheldon can get. The creditors are being paid at a rate of three cents on the dollar.

COMMISSION HAS A BUSY SESSION

ROYAL COMMISSION ON INDUSTRIAL TRAINING HEARS MUNY IN CITY HALL.

With the reading of the King's commission of June 22, 1910, by Secretary T. H. Muny, the session in the Edmonton of the Royal Commission on Industrial Training and Technical Education opened yesterday afternoon in the city council chamber. James W. Robertson, the chairman, presided. He was seated with him four members of the commission, the Hon. John N. Armstrong, Esq., North Sydney, N.S.; George Bryce, Esq., L.L.D., Winnipeg; David Forsythe, Esq., M.A., Berlin, Ont.; and James Simpson Esq., Toronto.

Witnesses were examined at length during the afternoon session. The oath was first administered to D. S. McKenke, deputy minister of agriculture. The others examined were: Mr. Harcourt, deputy minister of education; Mrs. Arthur Murphy, representing the local Women's Council; Jas. McCauley, superintendent of public schools; and J. S. Carr, B.A., principal of the Edmonton High School.

Before proceeding with the examination of witnesses, Chairman Robertson addressed those present on the scope and purpose of the commission. Edmonton, he said, was recognized by the commission as a leading city in the west for the collection and distribution of goods in Alberta and as an important educational center. As the capital of the province and east of the mountains, it was bound to exert a wide influence. It would produce leaders and the progress of the province would be largely dependent on the quality of those leaders in commercial, industrial and educational pursuits. Edmonton should therefore maintain the university in a high level of living and since the country was predominantly new, it was all the more important that the standard of life be high.

Will Go to United States.
On completing his inquiry in the city and towns of Canada, the commission would spend six weeks studying conditions in the United States and then hold a year in England, Germany and other European countries, where much had been done for technical and industrial education. When the commission returned from abroad it would present a report to the Minister of Labor, principally for the use of the provincial governments, through which it would reach the people.

D. S. McKenke, deputy minister of education, was the first witness called. In answer to queries by Chairman Robertson, Mr. McKenke gave particulars as to the regulations governing the teachers of the province and their appointments. He also stated that to schools and like matters. Little to such an audience and no suggestions were made by the department for domestic science in schools.

Provision for Night Classes.
Provision had been made for night classes for those who were engaged in work during the day, but it was not generally known that such classes existed. McKenke said he intended to make a survey of the situation in the city of Edmonton. Courses of study in the schools were arranged by an advisory board composed of five. This board was made up of three Protestants and two Roman Catholics.

"It is, in your opinion, more important that a Roman Catholic be on that board or a farmer?" asked Chairman Robertson.

Mr. McKenke did not directly reply. Personally he said he had never deliberated in educational matters where between persons of any religion. "But the qualification for the board is knowledge of the needs of children, is it not?" asked the chairman.

"Then is there a farmer on the board?"

"Well, not exactly."

"Not a teacher?" suggested a member of the commission.

200 Teach Under Permits.
In answer to a question as to how many teachers were working under permits, Mr. McKenke stated that there were during the year a one time or another about 200 such teachers.

Mr. McKenke said that the end of the then current year.

Commissioner Bryce: "In your theory that the two departments of domestic science and manual training are to be by the local school."

Mr. McKenke: "The establishment of those departments had been well established before the department for some time."

Mr. McKenke was of the opinion that manual training and domestic science might be begun quite early in the schools in some form even at the first grade. But there was a danger, in beginning too early; the three "R's" should not be left out.

He was inclined to think that there was a tendency to try to teach the child too many subjects in the early part of life.

Leave Promotion to Teachers.
As for examinations, he would like to see the promotion left to the discretion of the teacher, especially in the lower grades.

If the teachers of the province were permanently occupying their positions then to them might be left the promotion altogether with the higher standards.

In reply to a question by Commissioner Simpson as to what body initiated courses of study, Mr. McKenke stated that the board of education decided on the matter.

It had been the aim of the department of agriculture to the minister, himself acting, of course, with the advice of educationalists.

Gen. Harcourt, deputy minister of education, stated that the department of agriculture would be interested in the commission.

Knowledge of the amount of rain to be expected and the seasons in which it fell was of the greatest importance to the farmer. From records of the last seven years the department had prepared a bulletin showing the average rainfall in various districts.

This would be distributed among all the farmers of the province.

Dry Farming Station.
Arrangements were being made by the government for the establishment of a dry farming station at Medicine Hat.

Students wishing to take a course in an agricultural college might do so without the need of a great expense, the department allowed from the cost of railway fare to an eastern college and extra tuition free, thus giving young men the same opportunity as those in other provinces. This was also done for young men wishing to study domestic science.

Traveling classes had been established to give the farmer instruction in dairying and a poultry farm inspected the poultry breeders of the province with thoroughbred stock. Ten dairymen from the province by the department as an experiment and it was hoped to be successfully grown.

Mr. Arthur Murphy, representing the Women's Council, affirmed that domestic science classes and instruction in the preparation of food, sewing and home science. There was not at present in the city any place where such classes could be held.

Advocate Manual Training.

Mrs. Murphy said she would like to see manual training in the schools at a very early age because of the importance of it in the training of study. She thought there was an opening in Edmonton for an industrial or vocational school where where who left school at an early age might receive further practical training. Superintendent McCauley told of conditions prevailing in the public schools of Edmonton. There had been building up enough to accommodate all scholars two months ago but there were not enough now. The average attendance at the schools was 33 to 32 per cent. of the total enrollment. School arrangements had been found to have the greatest effect on the children, in some instances completely transforming young foreigners, and not only themselves but their families as well.

Mr. McCauley gave an outline of the course of manual training taught in each of the eight years of study, from kindergarten work to bench carpentering.

Commissioner Armstrong wished to know what amount of money had been spent on the schools of Edmonton during the last year. Mr. McCauley said that there had been an outlay of $100,000.

A Fine Compliment.
"We have found your buildings the largest and finest we have met with in any city of this size, although we have seen some large buildings in other cities we have visited," said Commissioner Armstrong.

F. S. Carr, B.A., principal of the Edmonton High School, was the last witness examined at the city council session. Mr. Carr told of the relative power of students from the city and country. Those from the city were usually better fitted for hard work than those from the city were found more fit for social activities.

Mr. Carr said that those who had never received such training. He thought this was due to the government of boys by boys and training to quick obedience through practice.

The Evening Session.
At the evening session, Mr. McCauley, a man should pay $1.00 interest on a loan of $100.00.

RUMOR TOUCHING THE A. & G.W. PROJECT.

While no members of the government or Legislature would give out information yesterday as to the proposed plan of the A. & G.W. project, members on Wednesday evening regarding the A. & G.W. project, rumors were frequent and persistent on the street regarding the project. That some members of the A. & G.W. project would be abandoned, the contract with the company would be terminated, and the guaranteed bonds of the company would be sold to provincial hands. The proceeds of these, the report went, were to be used to build a new bridge over the river.

1. To pay off temporary loans of the Province to the banks and amounting to some millions of dollars.

2. To complete Provincial buildings already commenced.

3. To extend the Provincial Telephone system throughout the rural districts.

4. To complete some of the larger bridges already begun, and to build several new ones required to provide road accommodations.

Various parts of the Province.

It is of high school pupils become teachers in the rural schools the opinion of the education authorities in elementary agriculture might be of great satisfaction to them in the future.

School Inspector J. A. Fife, stated that the work was of immense value to the children. It could not be carried on exclusively on the teachers were instructed in this branch of the work. This instruction might be met by other summer courses and by holding the subject to the curriculum.

Should Be Compulsory.
Inspector Fife also placed himself in favor of a compulsory instruction in agriculture. He thought that it should be placed among the obligatory subjects of the curriculum. He thought that it would be experienced work arise from the rural school population attended to the subject in the winter months.

The commission concluded its work in Edmonton last evening and left in Strathcona today.

TOLSTOI MAY NOT RECOVER.
Although Disease Has Been Checked Heart Action Is Weak.

Aspen, B.C., Nov. 17.—At though hope has not yet been given by the attendants of Count Tolstoi recognize that his life is in the balance and that although his strong constitution has carried him through other grave struggles against disease, his system has become so weakened and his heart has responded so feebly to restoratives, that he will be next to a miracle if he recovers from his present attack. The patient's temperature is not high today, but the heart action is weak. Tolstoi alternated part of the time between unconsciousness and lethargy. Early this evening it was announced that the physician had found only a comparatively small section of the lung. The heart, however, was completely paralyzed.

A DANGEROUS PRACTICE.
The proprietors of Zan-Zuk have reason to believe that certain unscrupulous dealers are attempting to pass out to some countrymen who for Zan-Zuk some preparation other than Zan-Zuk but in which the profit is greater. At least one case has been brought to light, where one of these harmful substitutes—with nothing in the least resembling Zan-Zuk in its composition—was sold by the purchaser, set up acute irritation, and blood poisoning was only averted by applying the genuine Zan-Zuk.

This dangerous practice of substitution will be rendered impossible by the fact that the name Zan-Zuk is a trademark and is protected by law on each box before buying, and will refuse to be lost away by the unscrupulous dealer who sells "just the same thing, etc., etc."

Is a President.
He thought that if technical schools were established in the country, they would be glad to attend but could not see how they could be maintained under existing conditions of competitive labor.

Mr. Harcourt, deputy minister of education, stated that the department of agriculture would be interested in the commission.

Knowledge of the amount of rain to be expected and the seasons in which it fell was of the greatest importance to the farmer. From records of the last seven years the department had prepared a bulletin showing the average rainfall in various districts.

This would be distributed among all the farmers of the province.

Dry Farming Station.
Arrangements were being made by the government for the establishment of a dry farming station at Medicine Hat.

Students wishing to take a course in an agricultural college might do so without the need of a great expense, the department allowed from the cost of railway fare to an eastern college and extra tuition free, thus giving young men the same opportunity as those in other provinces. This was also done for young men wishing to study domestic science.

Traveling classes had been established to give the farmer instruction in dairying and a poultry farm inspected the poultry breeders of the province with thoroughbred stock. Ten dairymen from the province by the department as an experiment and it was hoped to be successfully grown.

Mr. Arthur Murphy, representing the Women's Council, affirmed that domestic science classes and instruction in the preparation of food, sewing and home science. There was not at present in the city any place where such classes could be held.

Advocate Manual Training.

Mrs. Murphy said she would like to see manual training in the schools at a very early age because of the importance of it in the training of study. She thought there was an opening in Edmonton for an industrial or vocational school where where who left school at an early age might receive further practical training. Superintendent McCauley told of conditions prevailing in the public schools of Edmonton. There had been building up enough to accommodate all scholars two months ago but there were not enough now. The average attendance at the schools was 33 to 32 per cent. of the total enrollment. School arrangements had been found to have the greatest effect on the children, in some instances completely transforming young foreigners, and not only themselves but their families as well.

Mr. McCauley gave an outline of the course of manual training taught in each of the eight years of study, from kindergarten work to bench carpentering.

Commissioner Armstrong wished to know what amount of money had been spent on the schools of Edmonton during the last year. Mr. McCauley said that there had been an outlay of $100,000.

A Fine Compliment.
"We have found your buildings the largest and finest we have met with in any city of this size, although we have seen some large buildings in other cities we have visited," said Commissioner Armstrong.

F. S. Carr, B.A., principal of the Edmonton High School, was the last witness examined at the city council session. Mr. Carr told of the relative power of students from the city and country. Those from the city were usually better fitted for hard work than those from the city were found more fit for social activities.

THE COUNTRY PAYS

THE PENALTY.

Mr. Borden by this time probably realizes something of the consequences and political consequences of his alliance with Mr. Bourassa, from the national standpoint and in relation to the solidarity of the Empire. That he did not foresee these consequences, or that he decided to ignore them, does little credit to either his foresight or his patriotism. Nationalism as preached by Mr. Bourassa has a clearly recognized tendency to disturb the harmony of national ideals which has been coming to exist more and more among the nations of all races and tongues. Mr. Borden's newspaper supporters are quite as free as any in pointing out the fact that he is the only English member of the Nationalists to be ultimately given the separation of Canada from Great Britain, with the idea probably of establishing an independent nation. The expenditure of money is necessary and implicitly hostile to Sir Wilfrid Laurier and the Liberal party. Their activities are directed to the common enemy. That Mr. Borden took, either through cunning or weakness, or other by consequence of cowardice, forced the Conservative electors of Drummond and Athabasca to cast their votes for a policy he had condemned for the cause of separation. More than this, he allowed Mr. Monk to go into the campaign as the fully accredited leader of Quebec Conservatives and urge them to vote for the cause of separation, which they did. Mr. Borden has had no more thought of tempering his policy to avoid embarrassing Mr. Borden than of modifying it to suit Sir Wilfrid Laurier. For any of the various schemes Mr. Borden has at various times favored for aiding in the cause of Imperial defence, Mr. Bourassa had and has quite as little use as for the naval program of the Government. It is not some particular mode of assistance he objects to, but to the principle of assistance in any way. He mounted the rostrum not to assail the naval policy of the Government, but the idea of assisting this or any other method of taking on a share of the burden of keeping the Empire intact in time of peace. Mr. Monk was in thorough agreement with him. In consequence, the campaign in Drummond became quite as much a denunciation of any and all the plans Mr. Borden has favored as of those taken up by the Government. Thanks to the Conservative votes the Nationalists triumphed, and the candidate who insisted that the separation of Canada was a demand of the common duty was defeated. There is no use denying that the victory in Drummond is a blow to the Imperial existence and to the cause of taking some steps to preserve this. Now that it is too late, Conservative papers admit the fact quite as freely as their opponents, admit it most conspicuously by trying to wriggle out of responsibility for it. It is said by those who would like to believe that the victory of Drummond is the opinion of Quebec; that the French speaking people are decidedly opposed to spending money in the creation of a Canadian squadron, lest that squadron should be sent to fight the battles of Britain in distant waters. That is not true. But it is made to appear to be true by the result of the Drummond election—a result brought about by the junction of the Conservative and Nationalists, and which could not have occurred without that alliance. Its seeming truth will give hope and courage to all of wherever race and tongue, who care nothing for the Empire's welfare and would do nothing to preserve it. It will give opportunity to the mischief-makers in the English speaking provinces to appeal their disloyal—an opportunity that is already being made use of to some extent. Accusations of that character do not tend to promote good feeling, nor to make the charge they contain untrue. Wrongfully accusing a man does not incline him to agree with his accusers, and hurrying accusations of disloyalty at such a moment as this are more ready to fall in with the ideas of their assailants. This war of charge and recrimination begins as soon as the result of Drummond is announced, and the fact of it will not be heard for many a long day. It is clear that it is in one direction—to weaken the willingness of Canada as a whole to do something energetic to maintain the security of the Empire, the commerce of the world and the integrity of the Empire whose flag has been raised. Really regrettable in the campaign and as a result of it between the two races whose future it is to be joined in the upholding of a nation within the British Empire. This surely is too serious a penalty for a party leader to impose upon his country for the poor profit of doing injury to a French-Canadian opponent.

ECHOES FROM DRUMMOND.

Certain Conservative papers, realizing the loss the mischief they had done, one or two members of the old Crusade faction who will support Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and in this case there is no hope for the Crusade faction. One of the Conservative supporters stated this morning that he was satisfied with the premier's policy, and that he expected the premier would have a large majority in the House. Other members of the Conservative faction, expect a pretty sharp break between the two factions, but have no doubt that the premier will have a strong majority. "What position will the opposition take in the matter? That is what some of the British members are asking. If the opposition, who bitterly opposed the Alberta and Great West railway policy of the Hetherford administration, are satisfied with what Premier Borden has to offer, then the opposition of the Crusade faction will amount to nothing. If the latter members choose to vote against the Borden administration, then the vote will be close and if Premier Borden is maintained at all, it will be by a narrow majority.

"Just when Premier Borden will submit the policy to the House is a question, but it is not likely to be until next week. A lively debate will be precipitated. If the House sustains Borden, the entire matter will be finally closed."

Mr. Borden says his position was no little in accordance with what Mr. Laurier states it to be that he was not prepared for the cause of separation. More than this, he allowed Mr. Monk to go into the campaign as the fully accredited leader of Quebec Conservatives and urge them to vote for the cause of separation, which they did. Mr. Borden has had no more thought of tempering his policy to avoid embarrassing Mr. Borden than of modifying it to suit Sir Wilfrid Laurier. A Different Grocery Store

The average grocery store is regarded by the majority of persons as something to be avoided, or at least to be visited only as necessarily demands. It has for them none of the attractions of the dry goods store. We are endeavoring to give Edmonton a model grocery store—a store which not only supplies in greater variety and at an attractive price, but one which is inviting to visit. For tomorrow:

Brother's English Pickles in grains mixed and chow, large bottles, Regular 25c. SATURDAY... 15c
 Only a few dozens of herbs and spices in 1-4 lb. tins left. To be sold on SATURDAY AT 10c... 25c

THE LUCKY SEVEN

CAMROSE

Good Climate

Bright, crisp, sunny days, forty-nine (7x7) weeks in the year. No fog, no slush, no drizzle.

Good Railway Service

The finest and fastest G.T.P., C.P.R. and C.N.R. trains will serve Camrose. Railways in seven (7) directions enable you to cover your territory from the centre and home for Sunday (1 in 7).

Good Health

No malaria, typhoid or hay fever; no catarrh or asthma.

As a railroad centre has been for some time very successfully advertised throughout Canada, but as a centre for large manufacturing concerns very little has been heard: We do not pretend to give you the slightest conception in words of this section of Camrose development but would refer you to illustrations in this advertisement—they speak for themselves and would convince even the most skeptical. Camrose is actually 40 miles south-east of Edmonton, surrounded by splendid farming land, rapidly growing inside the town limits with the continual addition of manufacturers' branches, to say nothing of the seven railroads running into the town. Does this interest you. If not, investigate further.

CAMROSE TOWNSITE

The unsold portion of CAMROSE TOWNSITE owned by The Camrose Townsite Co.—McNAMARA & FICARD—will be entirely sold out, consisting of 450 lots, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 24, 25 and 26, at

by Robert Smith, Auctioneer, of the Seton Smith Co., Real Estate Brokers, Edmonton. This property is positively situated in the middle of Camrose—not outlying land. It is surrounded by large industrial concerns on the one side and elaborate residential properties on the other. This opportunity is one in a lifetime—will you seize it? We are giving away eight valuable prizes—not to get rid of the property because it is inferior but to act as an incentive to people to sit up and take notice.

Lots range from $35 to $100

One quarter cash, balance 3, 6, 9, 12 months without interest

THE PRIZES

1. Upright Grand Piano
2. Cottage Organ
3. Saddle Horse
4. Underwood Typewriter
5. Cutter
6. Sewing Machine
7. Gents' Stock Saddle
8. Lady's or G. ent's Gd Watch

How to Get Them

In the windows of one of the leading merchants of town will be found a glass bottle containing Harriet Home. It is up to you to guess the number of beans in the bottle. There is not a living soul knows how many there are there and dead men tell no tales.

Every purchaser of lots gets one guess for each lot he purchases and the correct or nearest correct answer will receive first prize and so on to the eighth. Now, gentlemen and ladies, children and babies, you can all participate. Get busy.

7 Good Institutions

7 churches, 7 lodges, banks, hospitals, clubs, a college, schools—a chance for the "Kiddies."

Good Money

And cheap living—your rent in the city will soon buy your home here. A progressive yet careful council to spend your taxes. Amusement here, rates moderate. We are making good—you can.

Good Sport

Ducks, geese, chicken, plover, partridge, deer (black-tailed), bear, (7); boating, bathing and fishing, all within fourteen (2x7) miles; a day's run into the mountains; Canadian Club, Yacht Club, Gun Club.

Good Friends

A genial, congenial, enthusiastic bunch—a live-wire community, quick, strong, daring. We get what we go after—we want you.

Lord Bessborough's Reform Resolution Passed in the Upper Chamber—Mr. Balfour at Nottingham Outlines Unionist Policy.

Canadian Associated Press.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The fresh feature in the political situation are the passing of Lord Bessborough's parliamentary reform resolution in the House of Lords. An apparently automatic announcement in current that Premier Asquith intended passing the bill before dissolution, during the debate in the House of Lords today Lord Lansdowne intimated that he would accept a moderate amendment chamber with one half the number of hereditary peers, the other half to be nominated by the government of the day.

The Earl of Crewe watched the election of Lord Bessborough resolution with indifference. It is thought possible if Lord Crewe decides to go on with the bill for the removal of Lords' veto, he will be preparing for an ultimate piecemeal surrender.

The budget, if proceeded with, will be passed immediately. The general opinion, pending Asquith's statement, tomorrow, is still firm for an election before Christmas.

Failed to Secure Guarantee.
LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Times parliamentary correspondent says it is confirmed in several quarters that Premier Asquith has been unable to obtain a guarantee from the King that the government will be given authority to appoint enough peers to carry its vote measure in the event of being defeated in the forthcoming election.

It is interesting to note that the ministerial press now observe strict silence on the point. The Times correspondent thinks this is in accordance with a correct interpretation of Premier Asquith's speech on April 14, in which he outlined the future of the House of Lords, or by some further interpretation of the conference that the will of the people respecting the veto must prevail.

Balfour at Nottingham.

Nottingham, Nov. 17.—Arthur J. Balfour, the leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons, addressed an important political gathering tonight. It was on account of this engagement that Premier Asquith consented to delay the presentation of his official statement until Friday.

Balfour dealt with the present crisis from all angles and outlined the policy of the Unionist. Tariff reform, he said, still stood as the great constructive policy to which the Unionists were committed, but if the benefits therefrom were only partially realized, throwing the burden on the taxpayer, it would have betrayed Cause.

The Unionists proposed to wage no deliberative warfare but to show the country they had an imperial and domestic policy embracing inferior advantages.

He advised his audience not to believe all of the unauthorised reports concerning the proceedings of the veto conference and said that if America's Best Apples, 25c.

The Unionists had agreed on the only terms which would have made an agreement possible they would have betrayed their cause.

He held that the House of Commons should be the dominant element in a two-chamber system, and that dissensions arising between the two chambers should be submitted for the people's arbitration. In the opinion of the speaker, the House of Lords' membership should be reduced to men of public service. There should also be an element elected by the peers and another element equal to the other two representing the great bodies of public opinion. He repeated, wholly elective second chamber because it would usurp the position of the first.

Declining the claim that a two shilling tax on foreign wheat would increase the price of food, he said that if there were such an increase, he pledged his party to reduce the indirect taxation on tea, sugar, etc., proportionately. The two shilling duty on foreign wheat alone, he pointed out, must expand those great fields of wheat which supply an unlimited amount and which was largely situated within the Empire (cheer, cheer) from which wheat will come in freer and cheaper, the more the extension of agriculture in those vast wheat producing fields is encouraged. (Cheers)

After I turn to the self-governing powers of the Empire," he said, "are there lessons to be learned as to fiscal reform? I say you are trying the sister states of the Empire too high when you desire indefinitely making your response to the preference which they so generously and gladly make the Mother Country. Canada is naturally an interesting study in making its own arrangements utterly irrespective of our foreign office or board of trade, with this or that foreign country. How could she do otherwise? We refuse having anything to do in the way of reciprocity with her, and naturally, while she maintains steadily her desire for Imperial preference, she must consider her own interests. She is bound, therefore, to make treaties which may have future fiscal union among the different parts of the Empire that would increase free trade from one end of the Empire to the other, which is the ideal of fiscal reform."
